

OBITUARY NOTE:

With deep sadness we learned from the death of two excellent scholars and colleagues:

Dagfinn Føllesdal (1932-2026), was a pathbreaking mediator between analytic and continental philosophy and published in our book series several times., e.g. his 18th Vienna Circle Lecture on Husserl and Gödel in 2010.

He held positions at the University of Oslo and Stanford University, which posted an obituary: <https://philosophy.stanford.edu/news/memorial-professor-dagfinn-follesdal>

Jan Šebestík (1931-2026), CNRS Paris, participated in our activities from the beginning, also as Honorary Consulting Editor from the beginning and enriched our with his expertise in Bolzano, Mach, and Masaryk in the context of philosophy in late Habsburg Monarchy.

We will keep both philosophers in good memory acknowledging their personal and scholarly enrichment of our scientific community.
